

DODROMÁ: RÍO ATRATO 8 AÑOS DESPUES DE LA SENTENCIA. Quibdó / Colombia, 2024

SUPPORTED BY:

DODROMÁ: RÍO ATRATO 8 AÑOS DESPUES DE LA SENTENCIA. Quibdó / Colombia, 2024

- Vallejo Piedrahita, Catalina
- McNeish, John Andrew
- CUESTA MOSQUERA, ARLINTON
- Moreno Socha, Jenny Marcela
- León, Daniel Alfonso
- Juan José Correa, Juan José Correa
- Asprilla Gutiérrez, Johan Miguel

DODROMÁ: RÍO ATRATO 8 AÑOS DESPUES DE LA SENTENCIA / 2024 / 36''39 / Quibdó / Colombia

Dirección: Daniel Alfonso León

Investigación: Catalina Vallejo, John Andrew McNeish, Arlinton Mosquera, Jenny Moreno Socha, Daniel Alfonso León Equipo Colombia, Proyecto RIVERINE RIGHTS

Género: Documental conflictos ambientales

Montaje y Edición: Juan José Correa Música: Johan Miguel Asprilla Gutiérrez

Fotografía y video: Daniel Alfonso león

Temas de Apoyo: Documental "Atrato envenenao: la huella del mercurio" (2023) - La Silla Vacía. Foro "El Atrato es la vida cinco años de la Sentencia T-622" (2022) Siembra: Centro Sociojurídico para la Defensa Territorial Producción: Proyecto de investigación: "Derechos fluviales: exploración de las corrientes y consecuencias de las innovaciones jurídicas sobre los derechos de los ríos"

Dodromá: Atrato River 8 years after the Constitutional Court decision. Well, we always talk about the Law of Origin, which is the one that leads us to that cosmovision. In fact, nature has its own rights. the river has its own rights, the territory has its own rights. All of nature, the forests surrounding the territory. The rivers that bathe the territory. All of them have specific rights. If we look at the history of Colombia and Chocó, it says that villages were always created based on a river. Rivers are always sources of life and of many other things, and people are always around them. But this is obviously a subsistence mechanism that is given by the river itself. Food, transportation, and many other things that we need to live, and that these populations need to live because they are important. This is why we claim the Earth as our Mother,